II. Safety

6. Suicide and Self-Injury

Policy Rationale

In an effort to promote a safe environment on Facebook, we remove content that encourages suicide or self-injury, including certain graphic imagery and real-time depictions that experts tell us might lead others to engage in similar behavior. Self-injury is defined as the intentional and direct injuring of the body, including self-mutilation and eating disorders. We want Facebook to be a space where people can share their experiences, raise awareness about these issues, and seek support from one another, which is why we allow people to discuss suicide and self-injury.

We work with organizations around the world to provide assistance to people in distress. We also talk with experts in suicide and self-injury to help inform our policies and enforcement. For example, we have been advised by experts that we should not remove live videos of self-harm while there is an opportunity for loved ones and authorities to provide help or resources.

In contrast, we remove any content that identifies and negatively targets victims or survivors of self-injury or suicide seriously, humorously, or rhetorically.

Learn more about our suicide and self-injury policies and the resources that we provide.

Do not post:

Content that promotes, encourages, coordinates, or provides instructions for

Except in limited situations of newsworthiness, it is against our policies to post content depicting a person who engaged in a suicide attempt or death by suicide

For the following content, we restrict content to adults over the age of 18, and include a sensitivity screen so that people are aware the content may be upsetting:

Photos or videos depicting a person's death by suicide that are determined to be newsworthy

For the following content, we include a sensitivity screen so that people are aware the content may be upsetting to some:

We provide resources to people who post written or verbal admissions of engagement in self injury, including:

- Threatening or stating an intent to share private sexual conversations

Attempts to coordinate adult sexual services or prostitution activities, such as requesting or offering or asking for rates for escort services and paid sexual fetish or domination services9. Bullying

II: Safety

Bullying happens in many places and comes in many different forms from making statements degrading someone's character to posting inappropriate images to threatening someone. We do not tolerate bullying on Facebook because we want the members of our community to feel safe and respected.

We will remove content that purposefully targets private individuals with the intention of degrading or shaming them. We recognize that bullying can be especially harmful to minors, and our policies provide heightened protection for minors because they are more vulnerable and susceptible to online bullying. In certain instances, we require the individual who is the target of bullying to report content to us before removing it.

Our bullying policies do not apply to public figures because we want to allow discourse, which often includes critical discussion of people who are featured in the news or who have a large public audience. Discussion of public figures nonetheless must comply with our Community Standards, and we will remove content about public figures that violates other policies, including hate speech or credible threats.

Our Bullying Prevention Hub is a resource for teens, parents, and educators seeking support for issues related to bullying and other conflicts. It offers step-by-step guidance, including on how to start important conversations for people being bullied, parents who have a child being bullied or accused of bullying, and educators who have students involved with bullying.

Do not post:

Content about another private individual that reflects

- Claims about sexual activity
- High-severity physical descriptions
- Ranking individuals on physical appearance or personality
- Threats of non-consensual sexual touching
- Sexualized text targeting another individual
- Attacks through derogatory terms related to sexual activity (e.g. whore, slut)

- Physical bullying where the context further degrades the individual
- Comparison to animals that are culturally perceived as intellectually or physically inferior or to an inanimate object

Content that has been photoshopped to target and demean an individual, including by highlighting specific physical characteristics or threatening violence in text or with imagery

Content that specifies an individual as the target of

- Statements of intent to commit violence
- Calls for action of violence
- Statements advocating violence
- Aspirational and conditional statements of violence
- Physical bullying

In addition, we may remove Pages or Groups that are dedicated to attacking individual(s) by, for example

- Cursing at an individual or individuals
- Making negative character claims
- Making negative ability claims
- Claims about blasphemy
- Appearing to be first person but is actually posted by a different individual than the person referenced and targets more than one individual

- Coordinating, advocating, or promoting exclusion
- Negative character claims
- Expressions of contempt or disgust
- Calls for death or serious disease or disability
- Videos of physical bullying or violence against minors in a fight context shared with no caption or a neutral or praising caption

In some cases, content is written in the first person but is actually posted by a different individual than the person referenced in the content. This may be done to target the person in the content with the intention of degrading or shaming them. We remove:

Content that contains the following and is reported by the individual depicted:

- Claims about sexual activity
- Comparisons to animals that are culturally perceived as intellectually or physically inferior or to an inanimate object
- Degrading physical descriptions

Cursing at a person

10. Harassment

II: Safety

Policy Rationale

We do not tolerate harassment on Facebook. We want people to feel safe to engage and connect with their community. Our harassment policy applies to both public and private individuals because we want to prevent unwanted or malicious contact on the platform. Context and intent matter, and we allow people to share and re-share posts if it is clear that something was shared in order to condemn or draw attention to harassment. In addition to reporting such behavior and content, we encourage people to use tools available on Facebook to help protect against it.

Do not:

Repeatedly contact a single person despite that person's clear desire and action to prevent that contact

Repeatedly contact large numbers of people with no prior solicitation

III. Objectionable Content

12. Hate Speech

III: Objectionable Content

Policy Rationale

We do not allow hate speech on Facebook because it creates an environment of intimidation and exclusion and in some cases may promote real-world violence.

We define hate speech as a direct attack on people based on what we call protected characteristics — race, ethnicity, national origin, religious affiliation, sexual orientation, caste, sex, gender, gender identity, and serious disease or disability. We also provide some protections for immigration status. We define attack as violent or dehumanizing speech, statements of inferiority, or calls for exclusion or segregation. We separate attacks into three tiers of severity, as described below.

Sometimes people share content containing someone else's hate speech for the purpose of raising awareness or educating others. In some cases, words or terms that might otherwise violate our standards are used self-referentially or in an empowering way. People sometimes express contempt in the context of a romantic break-up. Other times, they use gender-exclusive language to control membership in a health or positive support group, such as a breastfeeding group for women only. In all of these cases, we allow the content but expect people to clearly indicate their intent, which helps us better understand why they shared it. Where the intention is unclear, we may remove the content.

We allow humor and social commentary related to these topics. In addition, we believe that people are more responsible when they share this kind of commentary using their authentic identity.

Click here to read our Hard Questions Blog and learn more about our approach to hate speech.

Do not post:

Designated dehumanizing comparisons in both written and visual form

13. Violent and Graphic Content

III: Objectionable Content

Policy Rationale

We remove content that glorifies violence or celebrates the suffering or humiliation of others because it may create an environment that discourages participation. We allow graphic content (with some limitations) to help people raise awareness about issues. We know that people value the ability to discuss important issues like human rights abuses or acts of terrorism. We also know that people have different sensitivities with regard to graphic and violent content. For that reason, we add a warning label to especially graphic or violent content so that it is not available to people under the age of eighteen and so that people are aware of the graphic or violent nature before they click to see it.

Do not post:

Imagery of violence committed against real people or animals with comments or captions by the poster that contain

- Enjoyment of suffering
- Enjoyment of humiliation

15. Sexual Solicitation

III: Objectionable Content

Policy Rationale

As noted in Section 8 of our Community Standards (Sexual Exploitation of Adults), people use Facebook to discuss and draw attention to sexual violence and exploitation. We recognize the importance of and want to allow for this discussion. We draw the line, however, when content facilitates, encourages or coordinates sexual encounters between adults. We also restrict sexually explicit language that may lead to solicitation because some audiences within our global community may be sensitive to this type of content and it may impede the ability for people to connect with their friends and the broader community.

Do not post:

- Filmed sexual activities

19. False news

Policy rationale

Reducing the spread of false news on Facebook is a responsibility that we take seriously. We also recognise that this is a challenging and sensitive issue. We want to help people stay informed without stifling productive public discourse. There is also a fine line between false news and satire or opinion. For these reasons, we don't remove false news from Facebook, but instead significantly reduce its distribution by showing it lower in the News Feed. Learn more about our work to reduce the spread of false news here.

We are working to build a more informed community and reduce the spread of false news in a number of different ways, namely by

- Disrupting economic incentives for people, Pages and domains that propagate misinformation
- Using various signals, including feedback from our community, to inform a machine learning model that predicts which stories may be false
- Reducing the distribution of content rated as false by independent third-party fact-checkers
- Empowering people to decide for themselves what to read, trust and share by informing them with more context and promoting news literacy
- Collaborating with academics and other organisations to help solve this challenging issue

20. Memorialization

IV: Integrity and Authenticity

When we learn that someone has passed away, we memorialize the account by adding "Remembering" above the name on the person's profile. This makes it clear that the account is now a memorial site and protects against attempted logins and fraudulent activity. We do not remove, update, or change anything about the profile or the account because we want to respect the choices someone made while still alive. We have also made it possible for people to identify a legacy contact to look after their account after they pass away. People can let us know in advance if they want their account permanently deleted when they die. We may delete profiles when the next of kin tells us that the person who passed would have preferred that we delete the account rather than memorialize it. Visit Hard Questions for more information about our memorialization policy and process.
